"The Ottawa Spotlight"

(By Wilfrid G. Smith)

A Weekly Review of National Affairs

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—In a score of ways the Dominion Government is mobilizing the man-power and economic resources of Canada so as to make the most effective contribution to the cause of the democracies.

On wholehearted cooperation by the Canadian people, the authorities here are satisfied that Canada can make a greater addition to the strength of Britain and France than any other member of the Commonwealth.

While every Canadian will be called upon to make wartime sacrifices, the potential resources of Canada are so great that the surplusage need not be Britain and France can, with efficient and zealous organization, be provided without reducing the standard of living in Canada much below present levels. In this respect, Canada is vaster than those countries which have been living from hand to mouth with every ounce of potential energy diverted into war preparation.

(Vast Reserves of Strength)

Canada has a great reserve of strength, economic and financial. This is demonstrated in 1914-15 and 1916-17 when it was far greater than it was then. Her population is nearly 40 per cent higher. There are 1,000,000 unemployed persons in Canada capable of being absorbed into industry, half of them now on relief. If war demands great skill, there are 200,000 persons who could probably be drafted from occupations which could be neglected somewhat in wartime to more productive occupations.

The efficiency of Canada's productive machine can be readily improved under the stress of war demands. Economists point out that full production and employment would increase the national income at least one billion dollars annually. There would be an annual contribution of one billion dollars a year could be made to the Allied cause without reducing the present standard of living in Canada. Under extreme stress and with improvisation, this might even be doubled. The magnitude of this figure is best measured by comparison. During the past five years, has spent about four million dollars a year on her war machine. Canada's war effort is geared up to fullest production might be able to throw in a contribution of two million dollars annually into helping to win the war. Canada is believed to have reached her maximum economic capacity, whereas most of the two billion dollars she can contribute would be new wealth, created by the employment of idle man-power and idle resources.

Fair Division of Burden
Though the financing of Canada's war effort will be a heavy burden upon the Dominion Government, the budget of last week's figures is best sign that the load is to be distributed as fairly as possible among the Canadian people.

The money to finance the war will come from three sources:—
1.—New taxes, and higher yield of old taxes.
2.—Borrowing.
3.—Transfer of sums now spent on unemployment relief, wheat and other agricultural assistance, deficit on the government railways and steamships, to war effort.

In 1914-1915 the government provided something like 40 million dollars a year for four years toward winning the war. This time the sum will be greater if the war lasts as long.

CANADIAN UNITS RATES OF PAY

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—The rates of pay of all ranks in the Canadian forces have been adjusted. Following are the new rates: Colonel $10.50 per day; Lt.-Colonel $10; Major $7.75; Captain $6.25; Lieutenant $4.50; Lieutenant First Major $4.25; Warrent Officer's first class $3.90; Regimental Quartermaster Sergeant, Staff Q. M. S. and Q. M. G. $3.10; Squadron Battery or Company Sergeant-Major, Q. M. S. and Staff Sergeant $2.50; Sergeant $2.20; Lance Sergeant $1.90; Corporal or Bombardier $1.70; Lance Corporal or Lance Bombardier $1.50; Trooper, Private, Gunner, Driver, Bugler, Tompeter or Drummer, $1.30 a day.

The old field allowance has disappeared, the whole thing being included as pay. The separation allowances for such as have gone into service as dependents' allowance, having been generously broadened to include a mother's sister, sister-in-law, mother-in-law, or any other female relative who was in charge of the soldier's home with or without children before enlistment and when the board decides that it is advisable the home should be continued.

No matter how high an officer's rank his wife will not get more than $60 a month dependent's allowance, this being the amount allowed for all officers above the grade of major. Major's wives will get $50 a month, captain's wives $40, and all other ranks' wives $30.

Absolutely no discrimination exists between children, whether the child of an officer or private soldier. The allowance for children is $12 per child.

The new rates have been drawn up by expert paymasters of the national forces, all of them with war service and most of them with paymaster experience. The new schedule is considered the fairest rates ever made, and makes the Canadian soldier the best paid.

DOMINION CABINET RE-ORGANIZED

A wholesale cabinet shuffle was announced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King in the House Tuesday night. (Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of National Defence, Minister of Health, Hon. J. A. McCreagh, Postmaster General, Hon. C. G. Power, Postmaster General, Hon. Norman McArthur, Minister of Labour.

All ministers except Mr. McArthur were ministers of the government formed in 1935.

BRITISH AMERICAN OIL COMPANY

More evidence of faith in the future development of Alcanut is the erection on a new site of the British American Oil distributing warehouse. Mr. Elmer Gray, the manager, has extensive plans for the future.

At present, the old warehouse has been moved to its new location on 2nd Avenue and its stores, where it will receive a new attractive finish in new design and modern fittings. The tanks which are buried in the rear have a capacity of 5,500 gallons and are directly connected with the pumps inside which are mechanically operated. All danger of fire from the wiring is eliminated through the use of vapor tubes.

To facilitate service a new gravel three way road is to be laid in front, and to get rid of the surface dust problem, it will be raised eight inches from its present level.

All three concrete work on the plant, the construction crew, having already finished. Those to follow are the pipelitters and carpenters. All electric work is being done by Arthur Chase.

At an organization meeting of the Young People in the Memorial Hall on Tuesday, there was an excellent attendance of old and new members, and a remarkable display of enthusiasm.

Rev. Lang, as mentor, presided at the opening of the meeting, and after the roll call proceeded to give a very comprehensive outline of the association, its purpose, plan, membership, functions, and place in the community. He then called for election of officers, and asked for nominations for President.

Charlie MacLean was elected by acclamation and took the chair for the rest of the meeting. Asking for other nominations, Barney Hughes was elected president, and Duncan Grouse, secretary-treasurer. Group leaders were elected in the persons of Margaret Grouse, Margaret Nelson, Marion Bell and Lawrence Demery. Groups were chosen later in the evening.

It was announced that installation of the Young People in St. Michael's on Sunday, Sept. 24th, and that on Young People would be expected to be present.

Following the meeting refreshments were served and the group enjoyed an enthusiastic sing-song.

The Y. P. wish to thank Mrs. Fred Spillman for the doughnuts when the group was kindly donated.

UNITED STATES CONGRESS IN IMPORTANT SESSION

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT HOPES TO REPEAL U. S. ARMS EMBARGO PACT

THE U. S. CONGRESS IN SPECIAL SESSION THE RESULT OF WHICH WILL HAVE AN OVERWHELMING EFFECT ON THE PROSECUTION OF THE WAR

Would Repeat Act
According to one person who attended the conference, President Roosevelt indicated a preference for repealing the present neutrality act in its entirety and placing United States relations with the warring countries on a basis of international law. He was advised, however, there was little possibility the senate would approve such action.

The present act principally imposes an embargo on all shipments of arms, munitions and implements of war, to belligerent nations; limits the right of American citizens to travel on ships owned in countries which are at war, and prohibits other than normal short term loans to belligerents.

Since American vessels could not enter war zones, foreign ships would have to carry stores bought here. Since the belligerents could not obtain their purchases on credit, they would have to pay cash hence the "cash and carry" clause that has been applied to the program.

"It was made clear that the most important subject in the repeal of the embargo and a return to the processes of international law."

"It was the consensus of opinion that the neutral countries on foreign relations take up the legislation as soon after the Congress convenes as possible."

CANADA'S NEW CHEMICAL INDUSTRY IMPORTANT ADVANCE

Development of an industry which can provide Canada with countless products not known or not available in 1914, and which has given Canada a better knowledge of the independence of foreign sources of many materials, was presented to visitors of the Canadian National Exhibition this year.

At an important period of modern history, immediately preceding and following the significant date of Sept. 1, more than a million Canadian citizens visited the Pavilion of Industrial Chemistry. There they saw the story of an industry of comparative youth, of splendid ramifications, and of such breadth that it produces from native materials thousands of products of vital importance today.

In 1914 this kind of modern science was almost unknown in Canada. Germany was known throughout the world at that time for its advances in the field of industrial chemistry, and to this science was credited much of that nation's strength when previous imports were replaced by Canadian products of the laboratory.

Since that time, Canadian industrial chemistry has become an important factor in industrial, domestic and commercial affairs. Its development has revealed, more significant, however, was the realization that today Canada stood equipped with dozens of plants from coast to coast, factories manned by trained scientific and chemical staffs and an efficiently operating, coordinated distribution system, providing the machinery of chemical research and production for every need that may arise during coming years.

Wood pulp, coal tar, nitrogen from the air, cotton linters, limestone, water and other equally available materials are some of the bases. Exhibit men learned from which the new science produces new materials which can be fashioned into innumerable ways. Today airplanes are equipped with armor resistant glass evolved by industrial chemistry; surgeons working under any conditions use the material which can direct light from batteries in the handles of the instruments to the spot where they are operating; special paints are produced from materials which are more durable than those nature previously supplied from far-distant places.

Plastics, unknown only a few years ago, are fashioned from water, air and coal, to be used in innumerable ways, not the least of which are many products in the airplane manufacturing industry. Rubber, liable to swift deterioration under certain conditions, has been equalled in resiliency and elasticity and entailed in durability by a material made by chemistry from water, air and coal.

Thus, exhibition visitors see, at a glance, how Canada is turning her attention to developments of importance which challenge their ingenuity and imagination. Canada, now chemically independent, stands prepared to assist in the national emergency.

Coronet Society Meeting

Buster Captured at Ardenode by Wilfred
Sharman and Assistants

Monday afternoon proved to be very exciting in our little village when (Buster) the trout seal from St. George's Island was seen in Serviceberry Creek thoroughly enjoying himself. The question arose how could he be captured. Many suggestions were offered. Finally it was decided that perhaps if a large piece of canvas could be used to wrap the errant Seal in his days of freedom would be a thing of the past. This suggestion proved to be quite successful, and after quite a struggle in the water, Buster was captured and placed in a trailer for safe keeping, till his keeper Mr. Baynes arrived to take him home once again. Those that were responsible for bringing Buster's vacation to an end were Mr. T. H. Grant, Mr. C. F. Anstee and son Fred also

Wilfred Sharman. They all complained of being rather damp, but the excitement was well worth the soaking. This all happened between 1:30 and 2 p.m. The school children were all present and saw amid great excitement Buster's capture. Quite a number of people hearing about Buster came around to say "Hello." Buster's keeper says, "Never again."

Mr. Wm. Knott was a Calgary visitor last Tuesday.

Threshing is in full swing these fine days. From early morn till late at night all hands are on deck.

COOK'S TOURS LET OUT 125 AS WAR HITS BUSINESS Most of Employees Dropped Are in New York Area

Almost complete stoppage of private travel in Europe and to other parts of the world prompted Thos. Cook and Son, travel agency, to drop about 125 persons employed in its United States organization. Most of those let out were employed in the New York Area.

A company spokesman said that the normal staff in the United States was about 400 persons and he expressed the hope that an upturn in travel to parts of the world other than Europe would enable the company to rehire many. He pointed out that the company had been increasing its South American organization because of a large development in travel southward. Thos. Cook & Son employs about 10,000 persons throughout the world, and it is understood that many elsewhere have been or will be dropped.

Gracie Fields Writes New Song to Succeed Tipperary "WISH ME LUCK" OFFERED AS "TIPPERARY" SUCCESSOR

Cheerio, Here I Go, Says Song Sponsored by Gracie Fields

London—Gracie Fields, Britain's sweetheart of the music halls, announced a new national "cheerio song" designed to succeed 1915's Tipperary.

It is called "Wish Me Luck," and begins: Wish me luck as you way me goodby. Cheerio, here I go, on my way. Wish me luck as you way me goodby. With a cheer, not a tear, make it say. Miss Fields, recuperating from illness, said she hoped "the boys will like it, and when I am a little better I want to sing it to them myself."

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

(By H. G. L. Strange)

Director—The Crop Testing Plan

The Crop Testing Plan has just concluded the analysis of 24,000 wheat samples, each one of which represents a farmer's field of wheat. While a large number of excellent true to variety fields were found, yet on the other hand the tests revealed that thousands of farmers are losing money by producing crops which are made up of mixtures or of uncountable varieties. These poor varieties and mixtures not only lower the farmer's yields and grades, hence lose him money, but as well tend to lower the general quality of Canadian wheat. Farmers, therefore, who had C's and "Mixtures" in the "Crop Testing Plan" tests, or other farmers who may be in doubt about the quality of their crops, should certainly not continue to sow poor money losing seed, but should now lay their plans to secure more suitable stock for next spring's sowing.

In almost every district there are professional seed grovers who are constantly priced Registered and Certified seed to sell. There are also in each district farmers who have in their barns true-to-variety "Crop Testing Plan" A's stocks, which stocks can usually be purchased by neighboring farmers at a modest premium.

High quality wheat is a vital war necessity for Canada, Great Britain and their Allies.

Edmonton Letter

(By T. B. Winjress)

Edmonton, Sept. 21.— Apart from the more than 5,000 troops now under arms in Alberta and the flow of propaganda from the provincial government's setup, the war had made little apparent difference to life in Alberta this week.

Business men reported that business has remained good and will remain so because of continued good prices, the need of greater production, and the increased circulation of money. Some predicted that retail as well as farm business in all parts of the province will actually boom, and in doing so will give the greatest possible help to the federal government as well as to the people themselves in war time since the increased turnover will increase government funds.

Just where the Alberta government and the Social Credit party generally are standing in the crisis remained something of a mystery. Premier William Aberhart declared in broadcasts that his government intended to give co-operation "unflinchingly" to the federal government, and told his hearers said, "It is the spirit which the intention that must be recognized, rather than the exact word, phrase or statement; it is essentially vital that no misunderstanding should disrupt our complete and effective support."

But at the same time, the newspaper which is edited and published by H. J. Laidlaw Maynard as the mouthpiece of the Social Credit league, and with the endorsement of Premier Aberhart, has in its last number of the federal government's war financing policies and printing what is called "Our War Policy," asked its readers to "stand by it alone."

"Conscription of money and wealth" became a catchword of the party and was used by Premier Aberhart. But no explanation was offered as to what that phrase might mean. "Obviously," said the premier, "it does not mean violence and general expropriation of all property, private and corporate, by some bureaucratic central authority." That would be like Hitlerism, he said. "We believe that what the people want is the conscription of the financial system of the country to provide for the national needs and to control effectively finance, industry and commerce," he said.

But no suggestion was offered as to what form that might take.

The Social Credit group in the house of commons at Ottawa last week had some trouble; they offered no explanation of what was meant by their catchword "conscription of wealth" which they used freely. Finally, in the dying moments of the special session of parliament, Rose Pelletier, S. C. member for Peace River, proposed an amendment to establish a committee which would study ways and means of conscripting wealth and ensuring equality of sacrifice. Half of the Social Credit members stayed out of the house, so the bill could not have to vote on the result.

tion; none but eight Social Crediters supported it.

Angus McIntosh, C.P.F. member, asked the Social Credit members for an explanation of the term, but could not get one because, obviously, they did not know what they meant.

"If they know the distinction or the association between finance and property, they would not be talking continually in this way," the C.P.F. member said. "Finance today represents property; you cannot conscript finance without conscripting property. You cannot nationalize finance without nationalizing industry. If one one of the Social Credit group could explain to this house what is meant by conscription of finance, he would be conferring a favor on this house."

There was no reply.

Prime Minister Mackenzie King having announced that there would be no conscription of manpower in the war, the Social Credit group urged conscription of everything. The situation resulted in a break between the Social Credit league of Quebec, which opposed any participation in war, and the Social Credit organization elsewhere. Premier Aberhart said the Quebec league could have its own opinion, but warned what would happen to the organization and to democracy itself if Hitler were to seize Canada. For its part, the Quebec league officially repudiated the opinions of Aberhart, Blackmore and Hertridge.

G. M. Blackstock, K. C., Melville Hall Lawyer and a brother in law of E. M. The government also appointed what it called a "price spreads board" to study any rise in prices of commodities—the same work that is being done by the federal government to prevent profiteering.
